Council revises firefighter review

by CHAD INGRAM

Times Staff

Minden Hills township will revise a proposed review process for its volunteer firefighters.

During a June 8 committee-of-the-whole meeting, there was disagreement amongst councillors about instituting performance reviews for members of the township's volunteer fire department.

Fire chief Doug Schell recommended against such a practice.

"Personally, I don't see the benefit of this," Schell told councillors at that meeting. "They do give up a lot for the benefit of the community. It's just adding more stress to the firefighters."

Members of the fire department already have their skills evaluated by the township's fire training officer.

Township chief administrative officer Lorrie Blanchard had been absent from the June 8 meeting, and the matter was deferred until Blanchard was present to answer questions.

During a June 29 council meeting, Blanchard said the term "performance review" may be outdated and explained the process being proposed would not be the same as the formal review process that full-time staff members go through.

Even during those reviews, Blanchard said the focus is more on how the individual is doing.

An estimated 5,000 people visited Minden's annual Canada Day celebration, including river race participants who paddled down the Gull River in red and white. Events took place across the county and the country to acknowledge the anniversary of Confederation, made even more special this year by the sesquicentennial celebration. Official flood meeting in the works

Times Staff

Minden Hills township will host a public meeting for residents who were affected by May flooding. The meeting is tentatively scheduled for July and will be confirmed once a moderator is acquired.

Councillors discussed the organization of the town-hall-style meeting in a lengthy conversation during a June 29 council meeting.

Reeve Brent Devolin has said numerous times there would be an opportunity for residents to make their concerns regarding the flood known and to ask questions.

"There's people that want to tell their stories," Devolin said Thursday. "They want to say how they were affected."

Devolin has said that while the emergency phase of the flood is now over – a state of emergency that had been declared in Minden Hills was lifted May 26 – the township is still in the recovery phase, and that staff have continued to work on flood-related matters.

The first post-flood debriefing meeting between the municipality's control group and government agencies such as Parks Canada, which operates the Trent Severn Waterway, took place on Tuesday, June 27.

"There are a number of things that are already in process that the general public is not aware of," Devolin said.

"I think there's a lot of misunderstanding on that."

A number of frustrated residents gathered for a meeting regarding the flood at the Dominion Hotel on Monday night.

That meeting was moderated by former Minden Hills councillor Brigitte Gall, who ran against Devolin for the reeve's seat in the 2014 election, and whose neighbourhood was affected by the flood.

"There were a lot of people who needed and wanted to do more than just 'tell their stories and grieve," Gall told the paper following the heated meeting.

ASES commemorates career of Grant and Marks-O'Sullivan

by SUE TIFFIN Times Staff

Two educators who retired from Archie Stouffer Elementary School last week acknowledged not just the children who had touched their lives, but the school administration and community of parents and volunteers who had supported their careers.

Anne Grant, vice-principal, and Laurie Marks-O'Sullivan, Grade 3 teacher, each celebrated three decades of working in the Trillium Lakelands district.

"All of my career has been fantastic," said Marks-O'Sullivan. "Fantastic administration, fantastic community, awesome parents, and lovely children."

"I just couldn't think of a happier place to come," said Grant. "I'm always happy to come here. I feel like there's a really great support system here – the staff, the students, and their families.'

Grant began teaching in Omemee in 1987, teaching Grade 4 in one of 19 portables at Lady Eaton Elementary School before moving to Scott Young Public School for 12 years. She taught a range of grades with a focus on art, a subject for which she's passionate.

"I really hope that something I have taught or shared with students, somewhere along the way, has sparked a passion or interest in a topic, a skill or a new talent or hobby," said Grant. "I know the students have certainly sparked joy and excitement in me in many, many ways.'

In 2005, she began travelling to schools to plan for literacy and math in Grade 7 and 8 as a program implementation and assessment teacher. She said she "loved coming" to ASES in that role, which led to her becoming an instructional coach at the school, and soon after, the vice-principal.

"It's been an awesome career," said Grant. "I've been so lucky to come and do something I love every day. You get so much working with children.'

Grant said there are many touching moments with students she won't forget, like the artwork they created that amazed her, that three of her former students work in the same board now, and the Grade 8 student that noted the look Grant got on her face when she was excited by someone's mathematical solution. The student would say, "oh gosh, she's got that look again," because of Grant's enthusiastic response to learning.

"It is a feeling like no other to share a moment of success or an 'aha' with a child you are teaching – or an adult for that matter," she said. "I love to see the spark of excitement and pride in a student who feels that they have done something well, figured out a tough problem or challenge, or tried something a bit scary - like performing and sharing in front of peers – and felt the joy of accomplishment."

Grant said despite the tears she had been shedding in her last weeks at school, she was looking forward to having more time for her grandmother role, in travel, and in creating more art.

Marks-O'Sullivan agreed that teaching children had been a blessing. As a Big Sister volunteer, she will still have a connection to mentoring children in retirement, but said a trip to Croatia, Italy and Greece that leaves on the first day of the next school year will be a welcome distraction from not returning to ASES for the first time in 29

"I'm going to miss the kids, I really love the kids," she said. "That piece is going to be hard for me. I love their laughter, their hugs, their smiles. There's no one like a child to make you feel like a million bucks.'

Marks-O'Sullivan, affectionally called Mrs. M-O by staff and students, taught in Terrace Bay and Manitouwadge with the Lake Superior school board for three years before spending the remainder of her career at ASES.

Initially she taught library to the younger grades at school and said having the chance to instill a love of books in children was incredible. Her favourite book remains Robert Munsch's Love You Forever, a sentiment she shares about her students.

"Even if I read it to my class today, I would still cry," she said.

Marks-O'Sullivan coached cross-country, soccer and choir throughout the years at ASES, and helped to launch Helping Hands, the precursor to the Me to We concept, which she said helped students do kind things throughout the school and community.

The Minden area is important to Marks-O'Sullivan. Within a year of moving here, she bought property, got married and built a house. Her time spent here has resulted in her now teaching the children of some of her students, which she said has made for close, quick connections with parents.

"One of my students was crying with her mom," said Marks-O'Sullivan. "She said, 'I want Mrs. M-O next year, I don't want her to go.' Her mom said, 'let her go - she taught me in Grade 1."

Marks-O'Sullivan said she has also been at the school long enough to teach prior to computers.

"In my career, I can remember when computers started," she said. "They were really big, huge things, and they seemed really complicated, with floppy discs.'

After computers came smart boards - a sort of electronic visual display version of a chalkboard – and iPads in the classroom. Though the learning curve to teach in an increasingly digitized world has been at times complex for teachers, she said she has managed to survive. 'Staying current is really important," she said.

After a career that she described as being exciting, rich and wonderful, Marks-O'Sullivan said she was looking forward to pursuing volunteer work, enjoying time with her parents and giving the opportunity of teaching to incoming teachers.

"There are a lot of young, phenomenal people coming up," she said. "I want to make room for them, and leave when I'm still on top of my game. There is a season for everything.' Grant and Marks-O'Sullivan were honoured with a wooden obelisk installed in the school's front garden. "May Peace Prevail on Earth" is written on the obelisk in Greek and Croatian to acknowledge their future travels, as well as in Braille, to commemorate Marks-O'Sullivan's interest in the tactile writing system and advocacy for people with low vision and blindness.

leader, supporting curriculum in schools in Haliburton County for the past two years, will take on the role of viceprincipal at ASES this fall.

Like Grant, Gervais has worked with the TLDSB for the length of his career - 13 years thus far. As a teacher, he taught Grades 6 to 8 at JDHES in Haliburton, and Grades 7 to 8 in Cardiff. Gervais said he has interest in supporting students in special education, and also in developing inquiry and technology learning.

"I'm super excited just to get to work with the staff, meet a whole new group of kids and see where I can fit in to best help the students," he said.

Gervais lives in Haliburton with his wife, Karen, a teacher at HHSS and two kids.

Canada Day delivery

Proud parents Leslie Zeman and Nicoleta Hakki were up at their cottage north of Minden when Nicoleta went into labour. Jacob William Zeman was born on Canada Day at Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. "Jacob made his intentions known on the last evening of June but decided to wait until Canada Day to make his debut," they wrote to the Times. "It was the best Canada Day ever!"

Review more of a 'check-in'

"I try to spend the bulk of the time talking about the person . . . I guess you could call it a wellness check or a check-in or a chat however you want to look at it," she said. "So, I guess I think it's important that council try to look at this more from that perspective."

Minden Hills township also recently adopted a policy on post-traumatic stress disorder and Blanchard said the review process would also deal with mental health.

Firefighters' technical skills will continue to be assessed by the township's training officer.

"I don't want council to think that this was going to look exactly like what we do with other staff," Blanchard said.

While a draft performance review form had been drawn up, a revised policy for firefighter reviews will come back to the council table.

"They want an assurance that our municipal council, staff and provincial partners are hearing us, and acknowledging that we are not content to simply be the catch basin for antiquated expectations of water management, climate change, and political hand wringing.'

Councillors discussed how a public meeting would unfold, likely with an overview of municipal operations during the flood, before opening the floor up to questions.

"So, who is going to be speaking?" asked Councillor Lisa Schell. "Who is going to be answering questions? Will the TSW and MNRF be there?

"We can ask," Devolin said. "We can't tell them to come.'

The reeve said he thought the meeting would require a moderator and councillors seemed to agree that a trusted member of the community would be best suited for that role. While July 17 or 18 were suggested as tentative dates for the meeting, the township will wait and schedule the meeting based on the availability of a moderator.

During the flood of 2013, then-Minden Hills reeve Barb Reid held a public meeting where she fielded questions from the public, alongside representatives from Parks

Devolin has said that local politicians will be seeking a delegation with cabinet ministers during this summer's Association of Municipalities of Ontario conference in Ottawa and said Thursday his goal is to establish an agreement between the three levels of government on water levels management and flood mitigation on the Trent Severn Waterway.

"If we can get that in Ottawa, that's a home run," he said. "To me, that is the goal."

Minden Hills township was in a state of emergency from May 6 to 26 during flooding this spring, the second time in a four-year span the township declared a state of emergency due to flooding.

On Thursday, the township was planning to reopen a section of Water Street that had been closed to traffic due to a water main break during the flood.

We can ask. We can't tell them to come.

HAVE A CONFESSION to make.
Sometimes, during the winter, I wonder why it is that Winter, I wonder why it is that I continue to live in Haliburton County.

Often, these ponderances com

Often, these ponderances come when I'm snow-blowing my relatively long driveway on a dark, February evening, Arctic-calibre winds lashing at my face.

While it can be pretty when blanketed in fresh white, since I don't snowboard or snowmobile or ice fish or ice climb, frankly, I have little use for the terrain of the county during the wintertime.

So the dawn of spring is always a welcome transition. Trees begin to bud and bulbs begin to blossom. If we're lucky, we see more sunshine, although during some springs, like the one just past, Mother Nature likes to ensure that all the plants are well-watered.

Springtime brings a warming in temperature, which in turn spurs the arrival of bloodsucking armies of tiny winged creatures. There is nowhere to run to, nowhere to hide when the insects emerge in Haliburton County. Once dusk comes, even wide open spaces are filled with scores of black flies and mosquitoes, to say nothing of the more forested areas, where the swarms could conceivably carry away a small pet. The infestation is in full swing when many seasonal residents make their first trips of the year to the lake, for rituals such as taking out lawn furniture and putting in water lines.

Then come the merciful dragon flies and by this time of year, by July, the winged hoards are usually reduced to a tolerable level.

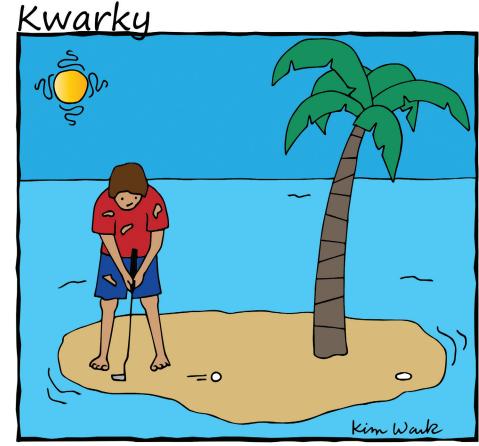

There is nothing quite like summertime in the Haliburton

Highlands, as it unfurls into its full majesty. Its quiet villages becoming bustling hubs. Its plentiful lakes, which will fall suddenly, almost eerily quiet when September strikes, are streaked with the activity of canoeists and kayakers, fishermen and waterskiers. At nighttime, bonfires glow through the trees along shorelines.

Haliburton County in summertime is the way I was introduced to it so many summers ago, and perhaps that nostalgia is part of what makes it my favourite season. This summer, my baby daughter will become the first of the fifth generation of my family to cottage on Halls Lake, in a cabin that was built by my greatgrandfather more than 80 years ago. And perhaps that is part of what makes it my favourite place.

Here's to another glorious summer in the Haliburton Highlands.

'At least my putting has improved.'

Gravel in your waders

ANY RIVER anglers know about how to find fish, where to position themselves for the perfect drift, what flies or lures to use, how to wade quietly, how to cast and a slew of other things that will help them catch fish. Few, however, know the secret to getting to the best spot ahead of their fishing buddy, however.

It is gravel.

If you are an angler with a competitive streak, gravel is your best friend.

And all it takes is a few perfect pieces.

That piece should be small, pointy, hard to see and just the right size to slip into your buddy's waders or wader boot. You don't want something too big or gaudy, otherwise it will be easily found.

I prefer to drop the piece of gravel into my friend's waders or wader boots when he or she decides to step off into the woods to answer nature's call. Then, when they return, I begin donning my own waders.

If you do it right, your friend will not know he has a sharp piece of gravel in his waders until he has taken his second or third step towards the river. Then, he will curse, go back to the car and remove his waders, empty the boot out and return to the river. If you have planned things right, he will then find one in the other boot a few steps later and go through the process again.

By the time he finally steps in the river, you should probably be taking a selfie with your third or fourth trout. And that's when you should welcome him to fish your spot – and while you are patting him on the back, drop in your last piece of gravel down his waders.

This last one should be small enough to infiltrate its way to the boot. That's important because if a stone too big drops down into his boot via the back of his waders, your buddy might ask to call the trip short due to an "emergency."

You don't want that.

You want him to be annoyed not alarmed. This last one is a slow burn.

Depending on how many fish you have already caught, your buddy might fish with that little pebble irritating him for an hour or so. Eventually, however, he will step on shore, remove his waders, and remove that piece of gravel.

Now is the time to act concerned, so go on over – and, just after he dumps his waders, drop in yet another tiny, jagged piece of gravel.

This is risky, but if you do manage to get away with it – for the fourth time – your friend just might try to fish without waders – which is also fun to watch in a cold trout stream. Not to brag, but I'm so good at this that I've had buddies try to sell me their really expensive waders for a discount rate on the spot.

Most will begin that pitch by saying the waders they have worn all year are suddenly the wrong size, when you both actually know they have something jagged inside that is causing annoyance.

That's when you find what a jerk your fishing buddy really is, by the way.

The point is all it takes is a bit of gravel to turn a good fishing day into a great one. Just be careful you don't get caught. You don't want your buddy to give you the boot.

Fear of the water

'LL NEVER FORGET Canada Day 2017. It was the day Louie learned to swim.

Louie is my 14-month-old great-granddog. He is a chocolate Labrador retriever, a water dog who feared the water. A Lab afraid of the water? On his first visit, Louie loped down to the dock and stared out over the lake. We figured he was anxious to begin fetching, so someone tossed a tennis ball into the water.

Louie pranced anxiously, peered nervously over the dock edge and waited for the ball to float into his reach. More tosses, same reaction. He quivered with excitement over wanting to fetch, but wanted nothing to do with the water.

We got him to wade up to his knees along the shore. He seemed to like that but whenever the ball was tossed he stretched to get it, but would not swim for it.

At one point he stretched too far and slipped off the rocks. We figured that was it. He was in and had broken the ice, so to speak. However, within seconds his panic became apparent and I wondered if someone would have to dive in to rescue him.

He thrashed his paws and his eyes filled with panic until his feet hit bottom. Wading with him, then swimming to show him how it is done had little effect. Louie was terrified of getting in over his head.

JIM POLING SR. From Shaman's Rock

Labs always have been part of life at Shaman's Rock. Gussie, a neighbour's Lab, used to come to our deck at 7 a.m. with a ball in his mouth and stare up at my bedroom door until I came down and threw the ball for him.

Moose, an aging chocolate Lab on the other side of our place, still pesters people to toss balls and sticks so he can swim to get them.

Emma, my son's chocolate Lab, exhausted people until they refused to toss for her. So she would take her ball to the dock, play with it in her paws until it flew off into the lake, then would dive in after it. She spent hours doing that.

So it seemed impossible that we now had a family Lab who was afraid of the water.

Some dogs are not built to swim. Bulldogs and dachshunds, for instance, have short legs that cannot provide the thrust needed for swimming.

Labs, however, have long, strong legs and over decades have been bred to retrieve. Swimming is in their DNA.

Dogs have distinct individual personalities and some develop phobias. Louie is a cautious dog; not one to do anything reckless. It was apparent he was not going to go in water over his head without some training.

My grandson Robert and his partner Laura got Louie a life vest and took him to a doggie pool where they could swim beside him.

When Louie returned to visit on Canada Day weekend the big question was whether he would take to the water. He pranced about the dock, stretching to reach sticks tossed for him but would not jump in after

At one point he became so excited about getting the stick that he fell off the dock into the water. He grabbed the stick and sort of swam his way to shore. His strokes still looked a bit panicky but at least he was

The stick was flipped off the dock again and Louie stretched to get it and fell in. He grabbed it and swam a bit more confidently to shore.

Then someone pitched the stick out 15 feet and Louie actually jumped off the dock, swam to it, then swam back. I swear he was smiling as he swam to shore. Everyone applauded and breathed relief that we had a Lab that could swim after all.

Louie accomplished something that I never could.

Years ago my wife and I joined our twin girls in learn-to-swim classes. The twins and mom graduated and moved through higher levels. I never made it out of baby class.

So when Louie comes to visit again we will go swimming. He will be the one swimming with the tennis ball in his mouth. I'll be the one floating in the life jacket.

Extra fees unfair

I would like to bring to your attention what I believe is an unfair policy of the Town of Minden Hills.

I recently discovered I had entered the wrong account number when paying my property taxes online. I learned this when I received a notice for $16 interest charged for late payment. Clearly, the payment wasn't late - it just went to the wrong account.

After looking into this, I was told that not only would I have to pay the interest on the payment pay a $25 fee to correct my original mistake.

I can almost understand the $25 charge, although in this day and age it hardly costs that to correct an entry in a computerized environment, and I think this fee is unfair.

But I cannot understand how the town can also charge interest on a payment they acknowledge was made on time. This is more than just unfair - it is simply wrong.

Top, one word helps Pseudolus (Paul Constable) escape a fraught situation brought on by a tangled web of lies. A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum runs until July 13.

Bottom, Philia (Laurel Denning) sings that she can't sew, nor cook, nor read or write her name, but she's happy merely being lovely to appease Hero. The show opens the 18th season of the Highlands Summer Festival. /SUE TIFFIN Staff

Lighthearted musical starts summer theatre season

by SUE TIFFIN Times Staff

A stage full of smiles and an audience full of laughter opened the 18th season of the Highlands Summer Festival on July 3 with A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.

The lighthearted musical tells the story of Pseudolus, played by Paul Constable, a crafty slave who attempts to gain freedom in exchange for connecting his young master Hero to the love of his life, Philia, a courtesan proficient in being lovely. The fast-paced show is billed as being "one of the funniest musicals ever written," and the Haliburton production is infused with local jokes.

Ten performances of the show run until July 13 at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion in Haliburton. Visit highlandssummerfestival. on.ca for more information or to purchase tickets.

Farmers' market wants to stay put

by CHAD INGRAM Times Staff

While Minden Hills staff are recommending that the Minden farmers' market be relocated from the municipal parking lot to the fairgrounds, members of the Haliburton County Farmers' Market Association would like the Minden market to remain at the downtown location.

Past president of the association Angel Taylor made a presentation to township councillors during their June 29 meeting.

Taylor was responding to a staff report received by council during a June 8 committee-of-the-whole meeting, wherein community services director Mark Coleman recommended relocating the market, held on Saturdays, to the fairgrounds beginning next season.

The market was held there during flooding in Minden in May, alongside the artisans' market that also takes place downtown on Saturdays.

During that time, staff heard feedback from customers and vendors that the cultural centre provided better accessibility, parking and washrooms.

The staff report also pointed to the market's popularity and traffic congestion in the village's downtown.

"As a result of traffic congestion and lack of parking within the downtown core, combined with an increase in vender registrations, the director of community services is recommending both markets at some point be relocated to the Minden fairgrounds as a permanent home," the report reads. "To do this, further discussion will need to take place with the farmers' market association and the other events/stakeholders of the fairgrounds to develop a site plan that accommodate and work for all.'

However, Taylor told councillors that the majority of vendors of the farmers' market would prefer the market remain in the municipal parking lot.

"We think it is important to be on the record," she said, adding the association had polled its members and that vendors overwhelmingly preferred to remain at the current location.

"As a vendor, I can say, it is our best market," Taylor said. "We do very well in that downtown lot."

She added there is not enough visibility at the fairgrounds, and that the beauty of the grassy area is trumped by the busy atmosphere of the downtown core.

"Over the bridge and out of sight, we are just not going to get the patron base," Taylor said.

While the market's manager had inquired about more space, Taylor said that was an exploratory request, and that market association can work with the existing space.

There is a maximum of 20 vendors at the Minden market, and Taylor said most Saturdays there are about 15.

The market will remain in the parking lot for the rest of this season and council will discuss the issue at a later date.

Perseverance results in diploma for AETC grads

by SUE TIFFIN Times Staff

A close-knit group of students and staff joined together to celebrate the reward for dedication while overcoming obstacles: a Grade 12 diploma.

Sixteen students graduated from the Alternate Education and Training Centre (AETC) and celebrated at a graduation ceremony steeped in support and optimism held at McKecks on June 28

"You don't have to be told about perseverance and hard work," said Gary Brohman, school trustee. "You did it, you lived it, good job."

The students completed the courses required for them to earn a diploma while at the same time working in the community, running their own business, coping with loss or raising a family.

"It takes a special kind of courage to come back and say, I really need to upgrade, to do better," said Lori Sargent, teacher and AETC administrative head. "It's quite a challenge and feat to be able to do that."

Family and friends clapped and cheered with pride as each student's name was called.

"I don't want to leave," said valedictorian Damara Scott, who had been studying at the school for five years and was credited for her creative talent in art and music. Scott said she felt safe and not judged at the school. Though she felt she didn't always have the confidence she needed, the encouragement and support of her teachers guided her.

"You taught me to believe in myself no matter how many times I was knocked down," she said. "Some of us might not want to leave, but I know we're ready to. Thank you, teachers, for standing behind us and believing in us when we couldn't believe in ourselves."

Scott was also the recipient of the principal's award and was described as being a "light in our school" by Sargent.

Other award winners were Tyler Baux (music award), Ryan Hannah (trades and apprenticeship award), Ashley Scolin (continuing education award), Josie Paterson (academic award), Ben Wilbee (entrepreneurial spirit award), Lucas Packard (co-op education award), Justin Dorrington-Irvine (R.E.A.L. award) and Jessica Neshkawa (Joshua Rewa award).

County and CoKL developing affordable housing framework

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

Haliburton County and the City of Kawartha Lakes will work together through a consultant to construct an affordable housing framework for the area.

The City of Kawartha Lakes is the service manager for the county, dealing with the funding the municipalities receive for social and housing services, managing waiting lists, etc.

The framework will build upon the directives in documents such as the housing and homelessness plan of the county and the City of Kawartha Lakes, the joint poverty reduction strategy and the county's housing strategy.

"This is really a next step, to develop a suite of tools that are available to encourage the development of affordable housing," Haliburton County chief administrative officer Mike Rutter told county councillors during a June 28 meeting. "The city has hired a consultant who would like to consult with all of us."

Rutter said the consultant is looking for feedback from local municipal staff and politicians, as well as existing non-profit housing organizations and those who might be interested in private-public partnerships, such as representatives from the construction and real estate industries.

Rutter said input could include whether local municipalities would want secondary units located in shoreline residential areas, for example.

"You would say, right up front, as part of the evaluation, that's not happening here," Rutter said. "We're just looking for direction on how you'd like the consultation to go."

After considerable discussion, councillors decided that a couple of meetings would take place involving a grouping of staff and political reps from the county's four lower-tier municipalities, as well as a wider meeting that will incorporate local service providers and builders.

Hope Lee, manager of housing for the City of Kawartha Lakes, was in council chambers and said the city's hope is to have those working sessions begin in early August.

Lee also presented council with the 2016 report on the joint housing and homelessness plan.

The report shows the rental vacancy rate in the area comprised by the City of Kawartha Lakes and Haliburton County is at an 11-year low, at 0.3 per cent. It shows the average monthly rent for single-bedroom unit at $847, two bedrooms at $1,100 and three bedrooms at more than $1,230, with average rent for 12 months at approximately $11,850. The median household after-tax income for renters in the region is approximately $48,000.

While the average home resale value in 2011 was $235,000 in 2011, it was more than $350,400 last year.

Hope said some 800 households received direct financial assistance in 2016, whether that be to help with electricity bills, rent, mortgage payments or taxes.

She said the waiting lists at the facilities owned by the Kawartha Lakes Haliburton Housing Corporation continues to grow, even with the introduction of new units.

We're just looking for direction on how you'd like the consultation to go

Meet John A. Macdonald in Stanhope

by ROBERT MACKENZIE

Times Staff

Stanhope Museum's Heritage Day is returning to the county July 15, featuring some special Canada 150 demonstrations.

The annual celebration, held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Stanhope Museum grounds, commemorates the ancestors, arts, trades and culture of the community and how they've evolved over the years.

There will be more than 40 demonstrations at Heritage Day this year, including a butter tart bake-off, antique guns and cars, beer making, fly-tying and live music from The Tent Shakers and Celtic Jam.

In honour of Canada 150, this year's Heritage Day will feature free birthday cake, 150 heirloom recipes and a confederation skit featuring characters such as Sir John A. Macdonald, who will walk around and interact with those in attendance, telling them what confederation would mean for them as if it were 1867.

Tickets to the event are $3 per person, and free for children five and under. You can find more information on the event, along with the event guide, at stanhopemuseum.on.ca.

County waives vegetative buffer requirement for solar project

by CHAD INGRAM Times Staff

Councillors agreed to waive a requirement for a 20-metre vegetative buffer for a solar project along Highway 118 near West Guilford.

The property owners are clearing approximately 2.5 hectates of forested area for the creation of a solar feedin tariff project that will be operated by Peterborough

A 20-metre vegetation buffer to provide visual screening had been a condition of that project, however, the landowners applied for relief from that condition as a buffer of that size would have made the project unfeasible for Peterborough Utiliites.

"The agent outlines that the challenge with a 20-metre buffer is that it would be on the south-facing side, which has the largest impact on shading of the solar facility," a staff report read. "If they are unable to remove those trees, then the project would likely be rendered uneconomical in the opinion of Peterobough Utilities."

Instead of leaving a tree buffer, the company will plant a vegetative buffer in accordance with requirements under the FIT contract. Those requirements include a strip of trees or shrubs planted in a staggered pattern three metres wide; that plants be native, non-invasive species with a ratio of 60 per cent coniferous and 40 per cent deciduous; and that the plants provide a minimum of 65 per cent visual coverage upon planting and 90 per cent coverage after five years.

Some councillors had concerns the planted vegetative buffer would not be sufficient, but Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey said he thought the request was reasonalbe. Fearrey also said that a hill on the property should block the view of the panels from the roadway.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF COUNCIL

TOWNSHIP OF ALGONQUIN HIGHLANDS OFFICIAL PLAN REVIEW

TAKE NOTICE THAT pursuant to Section 26(3) of the Planning Act, the Council of the Township of Algonquin Highlands will hold a Special Meeting of Council to discuss revisions that may be required to the current Township of Algonquin Highlands Official Plan:

WHEN: Saturday, August 12th, 2017

TIME: 9:00 a.m.

WHERE: Dorset Recreation Centre

1051 Main Street Dorset, Ontario

Algonquin Highlands Official Plan Review

The Official Plan is the municipality's key planning document intended to guide and control future land use development in the municipality. The Township's Official Plan divides the municipality into various land use designations, such as Settlement Areas, Waterfront, Rural, Wilderness and others, with corresponding policies pertaining to development within each of these designations. The Official Plan also contains general policies relating to environmental management, resource protection, transportation, services and utilities.

The Township's Official Plan was approved in 2005 and updated in 2011. The Planning Act requires that an Official Plan Review be undertaken to ensure that it does not conflict with provincial plans, is consistent with provincial policy statements, conforms to the County of Haliburton Official Plan and continues to reflect matters of interest to the community.

Purpose of Special Meeting of Council

The Special Meeting of Council will include a brief presentation outlining the existing Official Plan and revisions to the Plan that are necessary to address changes to the planning policy framework applicable to the Township. Members of the public will then be afforded the opportunity to address Council on any issue or matter that should be considered during the Official Plan Review Process. Further Public Meetings and Open Houses will be scheduled as part of the formal amendment process and Notice of these Meetings will be published in the local newspapers and posted on the Township's website.

We would welcome your input on this process either in writing or in person at the Special Meeting of Council. Any comments, information or questions should be directed to either of the Project Team members listed below:

Heritage Day educates about local histroy

DORSET NEWS

burgesslt@me.com

This past weekend people all over this great country came together and celebrated Canada's 150th birthday. The power may have gone out in Dorset but that didn't stop people from coming to town and checking out the many great activities happening all day. We even got lucky and the rain held off. The Dorset Lions held a ribbon-cutting ceremony for their Centennial Park Project and served up free cake afterwards at the Pavilion. Following the ribbon-cutting ceremony was a performance by Lou Moore. Thanks to a generator the Lions managed to hook up, the show was enjoyed by all who attended.

Across the road at the Dorset Heritage Museum was Heritage Day. People were able to wander around and learn about Dorset's rich history and partake in family friendly activities. There were also vendors set up selling their wares.

At the Dorset Rec Centre there were tables set up at the community yard sale where vendors sold all sorts of goodies. The next community yard sale at the Rec Centre is Saturday, Sept. 2 and if you'd like to set up a table you can call the Rec Centre at 705-766-9968.

Across the road in the fire hall was a book sale where they had lots of great books for all ages. If you're into reading, it's worth checking out next summer.

The rain came later in the afternoon and was finished well before the fireworks show.

The fireworks started just after 10 p.m. and it was a great turnout, both on land and in the water. For those of you who are not aware, this was the last year the fireworks were put on by the Dorset Community Projects Group. From here on in the show will be organized by the Dorset Firefighters' Association. Thank you to the Dorset Community Projects Group for the wonderful show you've put for the past several years. If you'd like to donate to next year's show you can go to gofundme.com/DorsetFireworks2018.

at the corner of Harvey Avenue and Highway 35. There will also be a table set up with things for sale with all the proceeds going to the Dorset Community Health Hub. If you have items to sell (that are in good shape) you can bring drop them off either the night before or before 9 a.m. on Saturday. If you have any questions please contact bjtownes@vianet.ca.

Sunday, July 9, is Ironman Muskoka (despite the signs saying July 10) and the cyclists will once again be coming through Dorset. Cheering is encouraged, but please remember to stay out of the way of the cyclists and stay off the road if you can.

Happy birthday to Alice MacKay, Don Abel, Dawn Abel, Norm MacKay and Byron Boothby. For birthdays or submissions please contact burgesslt@me.com.

The Minden Community Food Centre was presented with a cheque for $1,400 by the Archie Stouffer Elementary School Me to We team, which received the money from Ford's Drive 4UR Community. Joanne Barnes and Marilynne Lesperance from the food bank hold the novelty cheque, standing beside Greg Harrison of Minden's Ridgewood Ford. The group includes facilitator Michelle Kernohan, members Denise Sherbakov, Zita Suranyi, Alexius Mills, Colleen Petric, Lillie Garbutt, Aryah Sullivan, Ava Smith, Emma Tidey, Ava Allaire, Carrie Walker, Brooke Stover and Rory Campbell. Seated are Hannah Gartshore and Teo O'Malley. Facilitator Teressa Bird is at the far right. The Me to We team paired up with Ridgewood Ford to raise money for flood relief during a recent fun fair through the Drive 4UR Community test-drive fundraiser. The food bank also accepted $840 from the school, which came from the Grade 5/6 class and the fun fair event. The donations will be used to replenish the food used during the state of emergency in Minden. /DARREN LUM Staff

Lake stewards need your help never before. Just some of the threats and results are invasive species, declining calcium levels, increasing phosphorous and nitrogen in the lake, fewer desirable fish species, increases in invasive species, declining frog and other amphibian populations and exponential development

At this time of stress, who is protecting our lake? Government organizations are cutting back and don't have the staff to lead the fight on our lakes. So who is stepping

Your lake steward is the volunteer within your lake association who takes the lead role in learning how to protect your lake and sharing that knowledge with you so that you can help – because without your help their effort will fail!

The need for lake stewardship has never been more important or more urgent. Many of us have the belief that the small things we do or don't do will have minimal impact on this "big lake." We could not be more wrong.

Find out from your lake association who your lake steward is. Ask them how you can make sure that your septic system is not polluting your lake and how you can renaturalize your shoreline - your steward has some simple lowor no-cost solutions.

The moths are back

Adult Forest Tent caterpillers are swarming to the night lights.

For the next three or four weeks, Haliburton will be bothered by the aftermath of this spring's invasion of Forest Tent infestations are a natural Caterpillars

The adult versions of these insects are now emerging from their cocoons and can be seen swarming around street lights and store windows at night. According to Gary Clements from the Ministry of Natural Resources, large numbers of these moths will be evident for the next few weeks.

A few weeks ago most of the caterpillars that were devouring the area's tree tops went into their pupa stage. Now the moths are out in force, laying their eggs for next spring's crop of caterpillars.

The moths have a life span of about two or three days when they mate and lay their eggs. Eggs are laid in groups of 100 or more, cemented together in bands which completely encircle a twig, and covered with a glue-like protective coating.

around in large numbers years before the population collapses. These occurrence, happening every 10 to 12 years.

In the order of good news, Clements says the number of parasitic flesh flies is increasing. These flies are one of the factors which help bring about the collapse of caterpillar populations. The bad news is that the flies can be a greater nuisance to people even than the caterpillars

At night time, the moths can be seen swarming around street lights, which is one of the reasons why the trees around the Minden Post Office were covered so completely by the tiny caterpillars in the spring. One thing is certain, said Clements. Those trees that are near bright street lights will be covered with caterpillars again next spring.

1910 Day Camp at the Minden Hills Museum & Heritage Village

Children will spend a day at the Village doing daily chores and activities of the early 19th century settlers of Minden. The day may involve: school house activities, husbandry chores, heritage food preparation, fibre arts weaving and sewing, gardening, games and heritage crafts. Within the five heritage buildings, children will do a series of hands-on activities, learning what life was like before technology. Skills on how to bake, weave, sew and working with tools is a great experience for children today. Instructed by trained staff in time period costumes. For more information call 705-286-3154.

OBITUARIES

In Loving Memory of

Peter Kenneth McCormick

Surrounded by family, as Johnny Cash played, (Retired CPO2) Peter Kenneth McCormick of Irondale, comfortably passed away at Highland Wood on Friday, June 23, 2017 in his 72nd year.

Peter was born in Medicine Hat, Alberta on March 19, 1946 to Ken and Ann McCormick. He was the adored older brother of Susan, Sheila, Debbie, Jeanette and Alison. He was their protector and hero. When he was 17 he joined the Navy and proudly served his country for nearly 30 years. He was a Prairie kid sailing the Seven Seas. At 45 he suffered a sudden and debilitating illness. Despite losing most of his memories and abilities, he never lost his sense of humour and always wanted to make people laugh. He found enjoyment in his family, his books, country music, The Far Side comics and assassinating dandelions. His became a difficult life. But he had the unending love and support of his dedicated wife Donna who cared for him daily for 25 years. He walked his only child Jennifer down the aisle to see her marry a good man and have a beautiful family. He held both grandbabies, Avery and Justin, and watched them grow and played games with them right up until the end. To them he was the best Grampa in the world! He had a best friend in Graham Shaw, who was there daily during his first illness in Victoria, BC.

He was admired and respected by those he sailed with and was chosen to play King Neptune in the Navy's traditional Crossing the Line ceremony. Pete was described by his nephew Jono as "a great man that all of his family were proud of and respected. A character of rarity in these modern times!" And remembered by his niece Terry, as always kicking ass at Trivial Pursuit.

Despite poor health that impacted his quality of life by most standards, he was still called "a lucky man" because he had the love and time of his family who saw him daily.

He was respected. He was admired. He was loved. He will always be loved. And by those standards, his was a good life!

With one final salute, Donna, Jennifer, Brian, "Angel Girl" Avery and one last kiss from Justin.

Peter's family would like to thank Dr. Conway and the staff at Acute Care and Highland Wood that cared for him, as well as the private PSW's who helped care for him daily. For everyone who showed Peter kindness and compassion and who helped us in any way this past year, we thank you.

And one clear call for me! And may there be no moaning of the bar When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep, Too full for sound and foam, When that which drew from out the Boundless deep Turns again home

And after that the dark! And may there be no sadness of farewell, When I embark;

or though from out our bourne of Time and Place The flood may bear me far. hope to see my Pilot face to face When I have crossed the bar

In Loving Memory of

Ila Kellett (nee Brown)

Passed away unexpectedly at home in Minden on Thursday, June 29, 2017, Beloved wife of Sherdon. Dear mother of Kellie and her husband Glen, Travis, of Riley, Bayley, Ethan, William, Cheyenne and Shelby. Dear sister of Marion and predeceased by Doris and by her parents William and Legretta. Fondly remembered by her nieces, nephews, family and friends. Friends are invited to visit the family at the St. Paul's Anglican Church, 19 Invergordon St., Minden on Friday, July 7, 2017 from 5:00 until 8:00 pm and on Saturday, July 8, 2017 from 12:00 o'clock noon until the time of the Service to Celebrate Ila's Life at 1:00 pm. Interment at Minden Cemetery. Reception to follow in the hall at the Church.

Memorial Donations to the St. Paul's Anglican Church would be appreciated by the family and can be arranged through the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home Ltd., P.O. Box 427, Minden, Ontario K0M 2K0.

Bird Dog – the exercise

LAURIE SWEIG

Practical Fitness

HAVE WORKED with many people who believe that the term "core" refers to abdominal muscles, and the associated muscles of the back. As result of this perception they only do strengthening exercises that focus on these two areas.

The "core" includes all of the muscles from the top of our shoulders to the base of our buttock excluding the arms and legs. This series of muscles is responsible for posture, and are involved in pretty much every movement of the body.

In order to reduce the risk of injury, it's important to train the stabilizing muscles of this area. They are hidden beneath exterior muscles people typically train (e.g. crunches). The plank, and side planks are terrific exercises for training the deeper muscles.

Another example is the "bird dog," or as I call it "the pointer." The beauty of this exercise is that it adds movement of the arms and legs, but that movement only happens after the core has been stabilized.

Here's the breakdown:

- 1. Get down to the floor on your hands and knees in "table" position.
- 2. Ensure that your hands are under your shoulders and your knees are directly under your hips, and are hip width apart.
- 3. Engage your core muscles, imagine that you are balancing a glass/cup of your favourite beverage on your back and you don't want to spill a drop.
- 4. Extend your right leg back, keeping your toe on the floor until your leg is fully extended.
- 5. Lift your right leg up approximately four to six inches and hold (don't spill a drop).

- 6. Slowing raise your left arm until it is completely extended (don't spill a drop).
- 7. Hold for two to five seconds.
- 8. Slowly return your left arm to its original position under your left shoulder (don't spill a drop).
- 9. Slowly return your right foot to the floor and slide it back to its original position (don't spill a drop). 10. Repeat ALL of these steps on the other side (don't spill a drop).

For maximum improvement this exercise must be done slowly and deliberately. When done this way, it is boring, I won't lie to you. But it is effective. The core is the powerhouse of your body. Take care of it and you'll reduce the risk of injury and increase strength in all other movements of your body. I encourage you to give it a try.

Something to think about.
